

JAMIE & DAVE'S WEDDING

GOUDA
OF THE GALAXY

wedding party

Jamie Pantazi & David Bower

Bride & Groom

Andrew Pantazi - Officiant

Probably the smartest one here, more people should probably listen to him more often

Calvin & Ari Pantazi - Ring Bearers

The small one uses a cute smile to get things he wants;
the larger one is pretty good at video games

Jessie Pantazi - Bridesmaid

Enjoys hiking but not camping, and decided to get married after we did, such a copycat little sister!

Hamaed Houshmand - Groomsman

Loves guns, cigars, nature, freedom, and small government, definitely not a Republican, though.

Stephanie Morey - Maid of Honor

Lingering, like loitering, only legal—not only good for lyrical alliteration, this luminous, loquacious, luscious lady is a legend.

Danielle Bower - Best Man

The kind of person you really want to stab you hundreds of times over the course of an hour.

Mike Pantazi - Original Gangster

Wanted to be in the wedding, but couldn't be bothered to arrive a day early, so here is an honorable mention.

really ties the room together

After graduating in December 2018, Jamie decided to move to Texas to get a job helping with family separation and the crisis at the border. She decided to stop in New Orleans for a night or two on her way from Atlanta to San Antonio. The friend she was staying with also had Dave sleeping on the couch temporarily. As they all sat around the living room, smoking, joking, and watching something on the TV, Dave made a joke about the rug tying the room together. Jamie laughed since she understood the reference and is also a Coen brothers fan. Since she thought Dave was kind of cute, she decided to switch to the couch he was sitting on the next time she stood up. As night turned into early morning, they had been scooching closer and closer to each other on the couch. Eventually, their hands finally touched, and it escalated quickly from there. Jamie extended her stay in New Orleans for a few extra days, and they spent it together exploring the city, smoking cigarettes, and going out on a real live date.

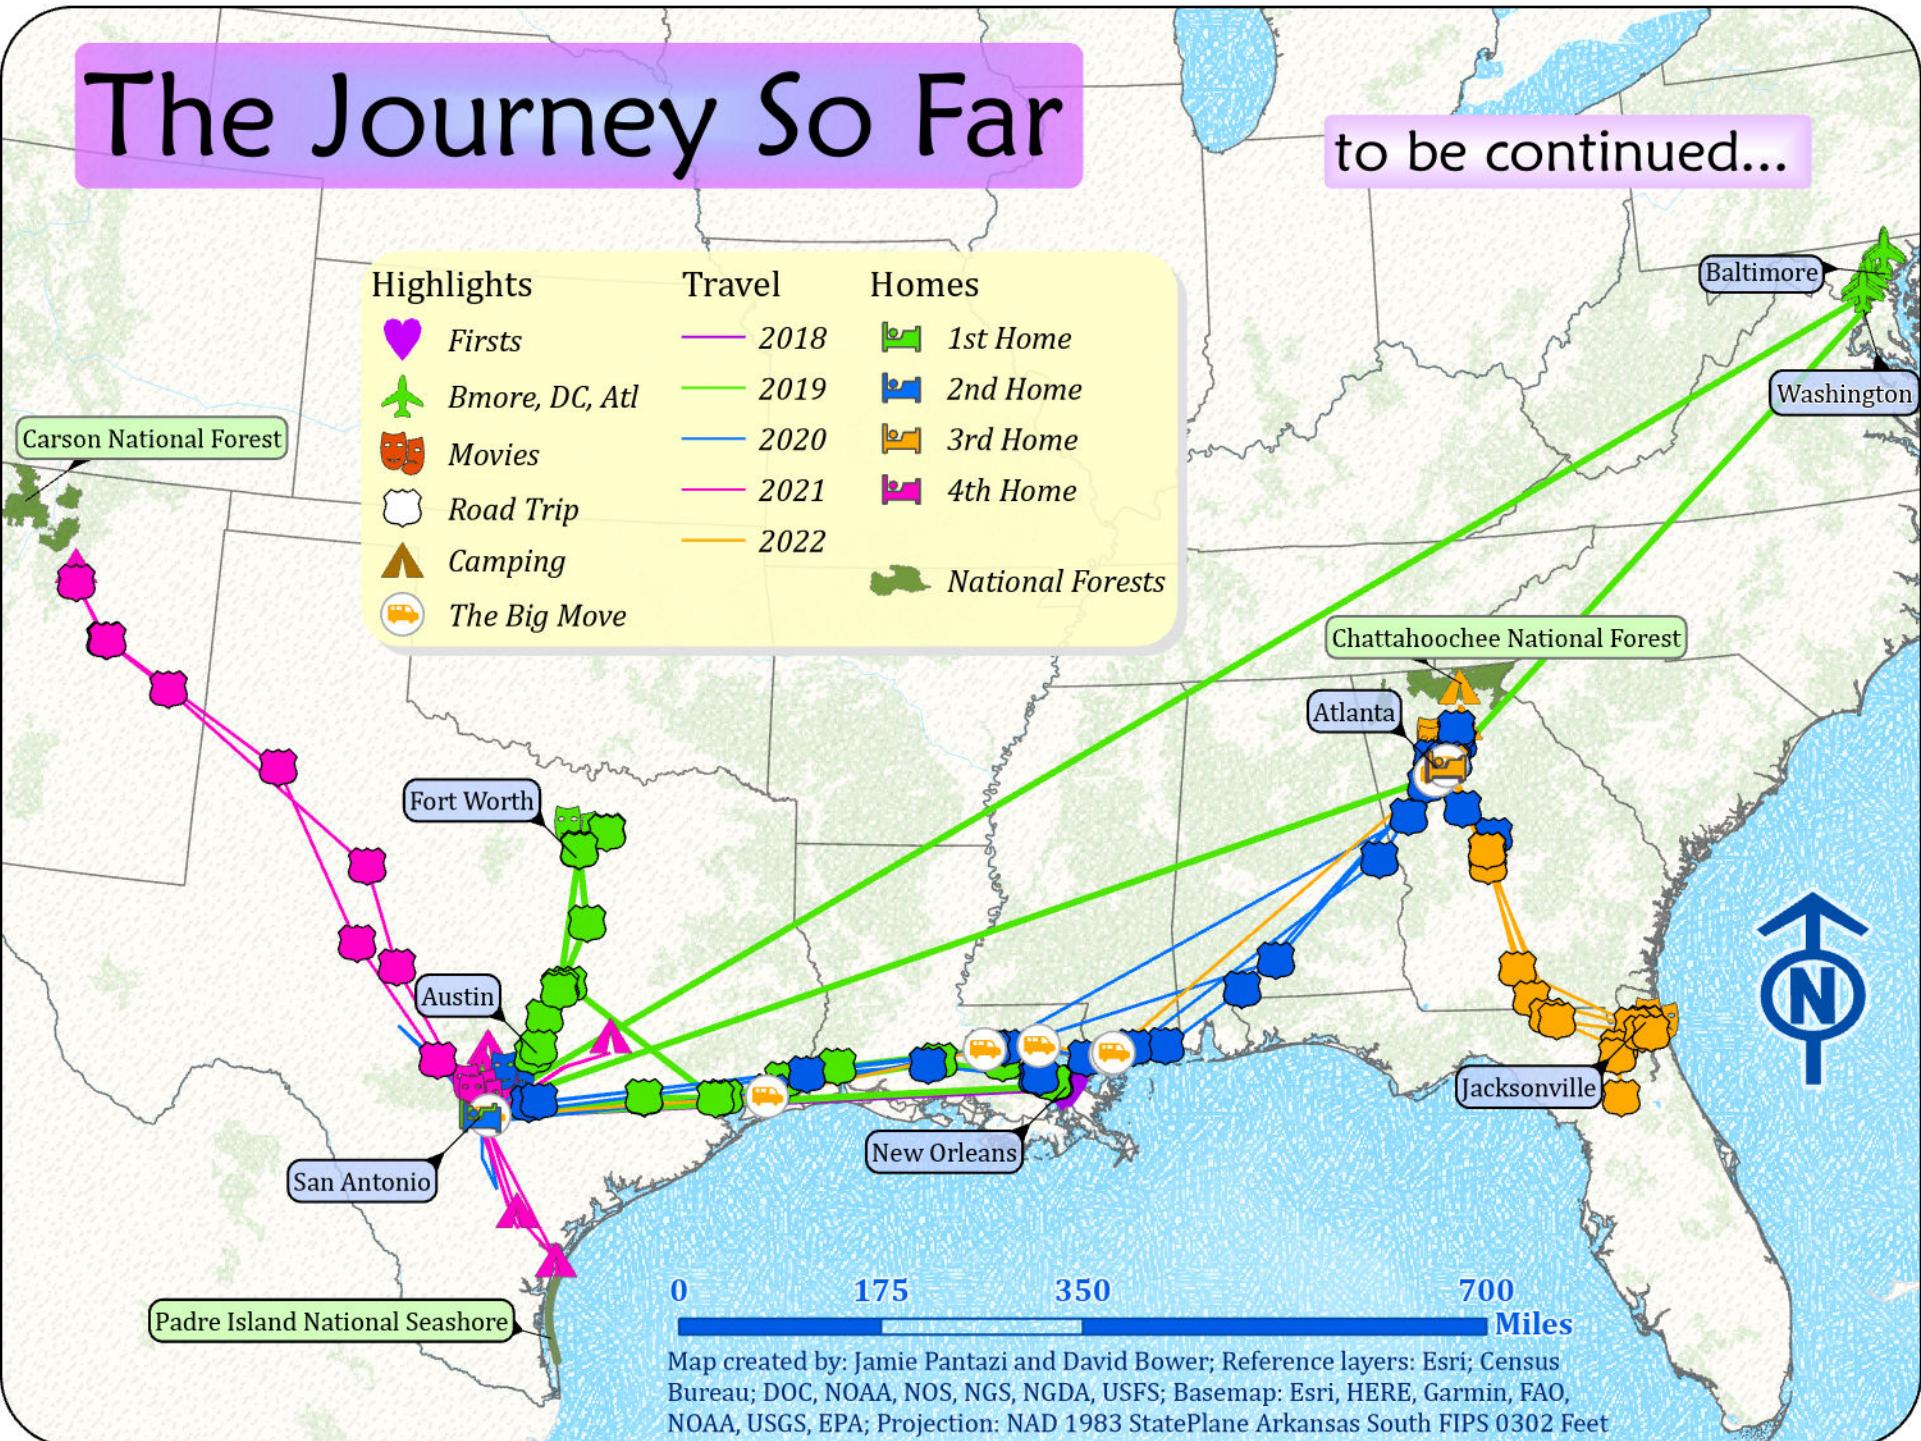

origins of gouda cheese dog

On a very hot day in the summer of 2019, in San Antonio, Jamie's boss sent out an email to the team explaining that she had found an adorable little street dog scrounging for food and shade around her house. Jamie sent the picture of the dog to Dave to ask what he thought about him. Dave said that is a very cute little dog, so they planned to meet the dog that evening. As soon as he came out of the crate to greet us, the little guy ran up to Jamie and proceeded to poop diarrhea all over her leg. After it was all cleaned up they snapped this picture. The dog was so happy and relieved to have a family, he just could not hold it in! As they contemplated a name for their new family member, their love of cheese and pets named after food overwhelmed them as they chose a name for their new Gouda-colored puppy.

The Journey So Far

to be continued...

11,000 feet up

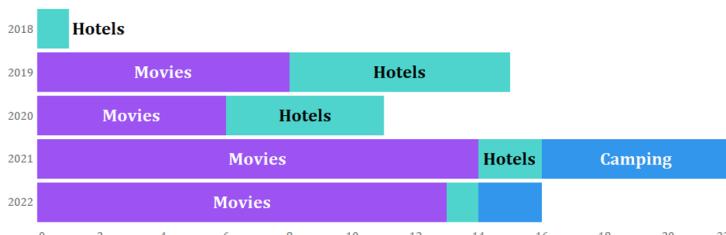

Jamie and Dave had gathered the gear and gone on many practice camping trips to prepare for this rugged and lengthy excursion into the Carson National Forest in July of 2021. The occasion was the national Rainbow Gathering. Carson National Forest is located near Taos, NM, and contains gorgeous mountains that stretch as high as 12,113 feet up. The trek up to the camping area was over 2.5 miles from where they parked, and the trail up was mostly inclined, with only a few flat areas to rest. After a hard road up, Jamie and Dave set up camp with thousands of others spread throughout the forest. They stayed four nights in this beautiful treasure of a National Forest, mingling with new friends, participating in hippie roadblocks, and enjoying peace and harmony in nature.
